At Bose McKinney & Evans, we are proud to represent transportation companies, drivers, operators, owners and insurers. New and evolving laws mean big changes and challenges for our clients in the transportation industry. Our attorneys have the experience to navigate NAFTA, IFTA and the numerous acts and agreements that surround the transportation sector. In addition, our attorneys are fluent in DOT regulations. We also can assist clients in dealing with hazardous materials and hazardous waste regulations.

We understand immediate response to accidents is critical. We assist with scene investigation, driver and witness interviews, assure preservation of roadway evidence, documents and ECM information and make sure that the driver receives required drug and alcohol testing. We act quickly when called in response to an accident because time is of the essence and secure appropriate expert witnesses who can address the issues that typically arise in these cases. We utilize our network of medical, vocational and economic experts to assist in a thorough investigation and analysis.
